<https://www.lokia.ca/residence/atholville/manoir-de-la-vallee>

Q. Why this career?

Because I like helping people, to make them smile and to be in a good mood.

Q. Place of birth?

Yaoundé, Cameroon

Source Wikipedia:

Yaoundé, often called Ongola in Beti, the language of the indigenous ethnic group, the “city of seven hills” is the political capital of Cameroon. Populated by 4,100,000 inhabitants in 2019. Yaoundé is home to most of the most important Cameroonian institutions.

Professional training - There are a multitude of such training centers in the city for various professions. specifically in the field of hotels, restaurants, academic orientation, in particular Intelligentsia Corporation.

Informal economy: A major part of Yaoundé’s economy is based on the informal economy, whether they be street vendors (also known locally as “rescuers”) they sell paper handkerchiefs, caramelized peanuts or non, cold drinks, clothes... or tend to small shops in the neighborhoods.

The informal sector also affects the housing sector, in which many builders are in fact non-professionals.
